This

paper describes a database for a set of Persian manuscripts in the collection of Kazan (Volga) Federal University. This collection includes 736 storage units briefly described in inventory books, covering a vast period—from the 14th to the end of the 19th century. Geographically, they represent the Volga region, Central Asia, Afghanistan, Turkey, Iran, Iraq, and other regions. There are manuscripts with colored miniatures, drawings, skillfully crafted by colorful unvans, charts and tables. Thematically they are very diverse. This collection will be described in a database according to different parameters. As a result a digital catalog will be created with all the necessary user tools.
