The State Public Scientific Technical Library of the Siberian Branch of the Russian Academy of Sciences, the largest library in Russia outside Moscow and Saint- Petersburg, containing 14.6 million volumes, is creating a digital library of Old Russian books from its collection. It exists on two levels: free online access (for cultural and educational purposes) and on optical discs (for use by scholars), laying the foundation for a distributed system of virtual depository uniting the collections of Siberia and the Far East.
